

GREAT PLANTS FOR YOUR WINTER GARDEN

Color

When the world fades to grey, these plants show their true colors.

- Shrubby Dogwood Cornus alba, stolonifera or sanguinea
- Oregon Grape Mahonia sp. - Bright yellow flower clusters attracts hummingbirds
- Heavenly Bamboo Nandina sp. - Reddish foliage
- Witchhazel Hamamelis sp. Unusual fringed flowers; often fragrant
- Hellebores Heleborus sp. - Tough but exotic looking
- Bergenia cordifolia - Broad wide leaves take on a reddish cast
- Strawberry Tree Arbutus unedo - This one has it all: Small white flowers, red fruit and mahogany colored bark
- Heath Erica sp. - Great texture too.
- Camellias Camellia sasanqua & japonica - Large blooms and glossy foliage
- Winter Pansy Viola wittrockiana - Every color imaginable
- Snowdrops Galanthus nivalis - One of the earliest blooming bulbs, pure white

Fragrance

Plant these near entryways and paths for maximum enjoyment.

- Winter Daphne Daphne odora - The ultimate fragrant winter plant
- Sweet Box Sarcococca sp. - Tiny white flowers and outstanding foliage
- Witchhazel Hamamelis sp. - See above

Berries

With luck, birds will let you enjoy these berries until late winter.

- Winterberry Ilex verticillata
- Firethorn Pyracantha coccinea
- Beautyberry Callicarpa bodinieri
- Cotoneaster sp.
- Wintergreen Gaultheria procumbens - Plus, crushed foliage is scent-sational

Texture

Shiny bark reflects winter light and grasses rustle in the wind.

- River birch (Betula nigra)
- Paperbark maple (Acer griseum)
- Heavenly Bamboo (Nandina sp.) Delicate bamboo-like foliage & reddish winter color
- Grasses (Miscanthus sp., Panicum sp.) - Leave dried seed heads for the birds

Shapes

Sculptural forms delight the eye and create a foil for frost and snow.

- Boxwood globe (Buxus)
- Irish yew (Taxus baccata 'Fastigiata')
- Harry Lauder's Walking Stick (Corylus avellana/contorta)
- Flowering Dogwood (Cornus alternifolia, C. florida and C. kousa)
